Dantesque Circles 6, 7, 8 and 9

Sixth Dantesque Circle — Submerged Sphere of Jupiter

This circle is subject to 3,072 laws.

Time becomes frightfully slow in this region; each minute seems centuries, and therefore life becomes tedious and unbearable.

It is the abode of atheists, materialists, enemies of the eternal. Also dwelling in that region are the blasphemers — those who hate all that may have the flavor of divinity — and the heretics, those who cultivate the dogma of separativity.

One feels filled with pain on contemplating, as Dante did, so many mitred skeptics and atheists put away within the sepulcher of their own passions, hatreds, and limitations.

When we think of the great legislators, sovereigns and lords who rule the social conglomerates, obviously we discover tyrants and petty tyrants who originate complications and pains here, there, and yonder. Hierarchs who abused their power; those terrible fathers of family who, having goods in heaps, deny bread, shelter, and refuge to their children — they believed themselves virtuous, just, and benevolent, and some of them were even profoundly religious. Heads of family who aspired to the intimate Self-Realization of the Being, in spite of all their cruelties.

Unbearable vegetarians of those who make of food a religion of the kitchen — I would call them hypocritical Pharisees, whitewashed sepulchers, to speak with the tone of the great Kabir Jesus. Heads of family very honorable and sincere, but terribly mistaken; some of these gentlemen were extraordinarily fanatical in the world where they lived, and with sticks and whippings taught religion to their children, as if this could be learned with lashings — nefarious subjects who darkened homes by embittering the life of their creatures.

Jupiter is the generous, bounteous, and altruistic. What would be the antithesis of generosity? Egoism, usury, the recoil. There are those who hoard all the goods of the earth for themselves, like a Sanagrabril and his cohorts.

Seventh Dantesque Circle — Submerged Sphere of Saturn

This circle is subject to 6,144 laws.

There, everywhere, violence reigns in the bloody submerged environment; one sees here, there, and yonder unnecessary destruction, frightful blows against things, against persons, against everything — the Saturnine influence with its definitively centrifugal forces disintegrates everything, reduces to cosmic dust persons, furniture, doors, etc.

The seventh Dantesque circle is, then, the abode of the violent against Nature, of the violent against Art, the fraudulent, the violent against God, the violent against themselves, against their own goods or against the goods of others.

There exists violence against nature when we violate the sexual organs. Such a crime exists when the man obliges his woman to perform the coitus when she is not in disposition to do it, or vice versa; when the man self-obliges himself, violating himself, to perform the coitus when his organism is not in fit conditions for it, and vice versa; such a crime exists in those who commit the crime of sexual violation; when the phallus is forced into erection when it is not in favorable conditions for the coitus; when under the pretext of practicing sexual magic — or even with the best intentions of self-realization — the male self-obliges himself to perform the chemical coitus, or obliges his woman for this purpose.

In the masturbators; in those who perform the chemical coitus while the woman is in menstruation; when the spouses perform the sexual union while the woman is in a state of pregnancy; when sexual magic is practiced twice in succession, violating the laws of the creative magnetic pause. There exists violence against Nature in those who abstain in a radical and absolute form from the sexual practice.

In homosexuals and lesbians — this class of degenerates are lost cases, seeds that do not germinate. Monks and cloistered nuns who mortally hate sex. Women who take abortives and assassinate their newborn creatures, true hyenas of perversity; in the pederasts; those who violently reject sex, as those who abuse it; the irredeemable fornicators — persons who are very well defined in the type Don Juan Tenorio or Casanova, and even the devil type.

When inferior creatures of nature are obliged to perform artificial copulations, violating free will; when we adulterate vegetables and fruits, with the famous grafts that the know-it-alls of this black age of Kali Yuga have invented; when we damage the ecosystem by contaminating the waters, the air, the earth, the elementals; when we castrate ourselves or when we have the beasts castrated.

Violence against God; the pride and arrogance of the violent against the divine, in the seventh submerged dimension, is the worst torture. There exists violence against the divinity when we do not obey superior orders; when we attempt against our own life; when we blaspheme in wrath; in him who wants nothing to do with spiritual mystical matters; in him who supposes he can exist without divine mercy and who in the depth of his soul rebels against all that has the smell of divinity; in that self-sufficient subject who smiles stupidly and in skeptical form when he listens to matters that have to do with the spiritual aspects of life; in the rascals of the intellect; in those know-it-alls who deny man all spiritual possibility; in those who believe they have monopolized universal knowledge; in the paragons of wisdom; in the illustrated ignorant ones, who not only ignore but moreover ignore that they ignore; in the iconoclasts who make a clean sweep when analyzing religious principles, but who leave their followers without a new spiritual base; in the Marxist Leninists, pseudo-sages who have taken from humanity the spiritual values.

There exists fraud in him who forms an esoteric circle and then abandons it; in him who opens a lumisial and then discomposes it with his crimes — courting another's woman, seducing her with the purpose of practicing sexual magic, adultering in secret, desiring the Isis of the temple, exploiting the brethren of the sanctuary, promising what he cannot fulfill, preaching what he does not practice, doing the contrary of what he teaches, scandalizing, drinking alcohol before the astonishment of the devotees, etc.

There exists fraud in the man who promises a woman matrimony and does not fulfill his word; in the woman who gives her word to the man and then defrauds him by falling in love with another man; in the father of family who promises the son this or that gift, this or that help, and does not fulfill his promise; in the individual who asks to borrow and does not return the money; in the sellers of lottery and games of chance — for the victims, convinced that they can win, lose their monies and feel defrauded.

Eighth Dantesque Circle — Submerged Sphere of Uranus

This circle is subject to 12,288 laws.

In this circle dwell all the liars and falsifiers, and all those who attempt against the Truth.

The false alchemists (the black tantrics), the falsifiers of metals, those who crystallized negatively. We also find the counterfeiters of money, the falsifiers, the impersonators of persons, the false prophets, the incestuous, the sowers of discord, those who promise and do not fulfill, those who make scandals and those who form schisms, the false and lying people, etc.

All those who have awakened for evil — even knowing that they must involve within the entrails of the world, until the Second Death, before attaining the restoration of the pristine original purity of the psychic material — do not repent of the path chosen, because they have made of their involution and of the fatal wheel of Samsara a religion, a mysticism.

It is ostensible that in this submerged region begins the process of ossification, crystallization, mineralization, and destruction of all the Ego. The condemned are devoured by the horrible Python Serpent (the negative aspect of the Divine Mother) with the purpose of destroying them, disintegrating them, and reducing them to cosmic dust, in order to liberate the Essence.

The Ego must always be dissolved, whatever the cost. With our will or against it, inevitably the "Serpent" must "swallow us" — either victorious or defeated.

Ninth Dantesque Circle — Submerged Sphere of Neptune

This circle is subject to 24,576 laws.

In this Neptunian submerged zone the traitors are reduced to ashes.

Woe to Brutus, Cassius, and the interior Judas of every living being! In this circle the involving creatures are definitively disintegrated. Here the intellectual rascals of the Tower of Babel — the traitors — are reduced to cosmic dust. These are immediately judged by the Tribunals of Objective Justice and sentenced to death.

There exist many kinds of treason, but some so grave that in fact they are paid with the death penalty. In this case the traitor disincarnates immediately, and his body remains in the hands of some demon. The cosmic executioners carry out the sentence, and such unfortunate ones disincarnate immediately, passing to the Ninth Dantesque Circle — although their physical bodies do not die. For it is known that any demon, replacing the traitor, remains put away within his body in order that the karmic processes of those persons or relatives who in one form or another are related with such perverse personalities not be altered.

Although it seems incredible, presently many living dead persons walk along the streets of the cities, whose true owners now live in the infernal worlds. Thus the Judges of Celestial Justice condemn the traitors with the death penalty.

In the Ninth Circle is the "well of the universe," the center of planetary gravity. It is not out of place to recall that in the Ninth Submerged Sphere, the creator organs of the human species have their full representation.

No one could ascend without having first taken the trouble to descend. "Every exaltation is preceded by a terrible and frightful humiliation."

To descend to the Ninth Sphere is indispensable. Some do it in life, by their own Will spontaneously and for their Intimate Self-Realization; and others — the majority, the multitudes — do it in unconscious form when they descend in the Abyss of Perdition.

After exhaling the last breath in that region where is found the "Throne of Dis," the Essence, the Psychic Material, that which we have of Soul, remains free, without Ego — for, as we have already said, this latter is reduced to cosmic dust.

Once emancipated, the Essence assumes a most beautiful infantile figure full of radiant beauty. This is the solemn instant in which the Devas of Nature examine the liberated Essence.

After they have verified to satiation that it no longer possesses any Subjective, infrahuman Element, they grant it a ticket (document) of liberty. I mean by this that they grant the Soul the happiness of Liberation...

The creature, now free upon the epidermis of our world, reinitiates a new Evolution. Then it becomes a Gnome or Pygmy of the Mineral Kingdom; later it will continue its Evolution, ascending through the Vegetable and Animal scales until reconquering on a distant day the state of Intellectual Humanoid that it had once lost.
